My name is Dusty (Dustin) Bingham. I am a fourth generation Honeyville resident and along with my wife, Mandi, am raising our five children in this rural community. My formal education began at Honeyville Elementary and concluded with a Bachelor's degree in Animal Science at USU. My profession is farming/ranching. I am an independent thinker, disciplined, honest, hardworking, and a team player. I have leadership experience serving on various boards including the South Box Elder Farm Bureau, president of the Ogden Area Beef Feeders Association, and I am currently serving as vice president of the Gentile Valley Grazing Association. This has allowed me to problem solve and collaborate on various issues. As Honeyville continues to receive the pressures of growth, I would strive to protect the rural lifestyle that we are privileged to enjoy. I believe that city government should be transparent in order to best represent its citizens. I also feel that city ordinances should be studied, followed, and applied equally. I love the small-town values that Honeyville emulates. If we are wise in our decisions now, Honeyville can continue to be a wonderful place to live for generations to come.
